The seminar is organised in collaboration with
Cambridge Assessment English, Cambridge University Press and Inlingua Pesaro

Motivating your students for maximum results

Research has shown that one of the key factors in successful language learning is learner motivation. Students who are actively engaged in the language learning process, are enthusiastic, and who have clear ideas about how and why they are studying are those who achieve the best and longest-lasting results.

In this seminar, we will look at some of the theory around Motivation and look at ways in which learner motivation can be increased and maintained in both the traditional physical classroom and with online teaching.
